MILO NOTES

Mrs. Beckner has returned to the home of her parents at Vancouver for the winter months owing to the illness of her father.

Mrs. Duncan Johnston is visiting in the city for a week.

Mrs. McMorris was a visitor to Calgary last week-end.

Mr. H. Allergoth is endeavoring to organize a rugby team among the youth of Milo, with a view to challenging the surrounding districts. A healthy mind and a healthy body—good work, Hank!

Mr. John Martin plans to move his farm residence into Milo. This will prove a splendid asset to the residential district of our town.

The world is small. Echoes of the big league games are felt in Milo as the local boys increase or decrease their pocket money.

There are still more mumps in our district. Lucy McIntyre is the latest victim.

Mr. L. H. Phillips has gone to Calgary for treatment of asthma. We trust that the change of location will bring a speedy recovery.

Mr. J. D. Spafford was a visitor in Drumheller and points south of there during the last week-end.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church held an afternoon tea and small article sale on Saturday last. They realized a profit of $12.

A shiny new sparkler has been seen to flash on a certain lady's finger. We wonder when the happy event will be.

Various Social Credit problems were discussed in Milo last Friday at a Social Credit meeting, with Rev. Peter Dawson, M.L.A., as speaker.

Nellie Peterson is out again after being in quarantine for three weeks and is spending her first week-end of relief in Calgary. She liked the mumps fine!

Our pianist, Miss Ruth Northcott, has been working in Calgary during the last month. She has been given the pleasure of singing in a choir at one of the large churches. We miss Ruth very much around Milo.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Sutton were visited on Sunday last by Mr. and Mrs. Cliffrad and daughter from Arrowwood.

QUEENSTOWN ITEMS

There was a large attendance to the W. I. meeting held at the home of Mrs. McCabe, last week. The hostesses were Mrs. McCabe and Mrs. Weberg.

The ladies Social Credit Group held a meeting in the old post office on Oct. 2, with a good attendance. There is to be a sale of home cooking and a tea served on the afternoon of Oct. 31. A delightful lunch was served with Mrs. Hogland, Mrs. Jorkine and Mrs. O'Leary acting as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Mallett are visitors to Calgary.

The Social Credit Convention held in the Milo hall with the Rev. Peter Dawson speaking was quite successful.

We see some of the young men who went to Carlsbad to harvest are back home.

Nearly everyone in the town and district were interested in the World Series this week.

Personal Message To All Social Credit Supporters

From Ernest G. Hansell, Social Credit Candidate for Macleod Federal Riding

The Macleod Federal Constituency is one of the largest of riding. It covers an area of nearly 9,000 square miles. Reaches the southern end of Turner Valley on the north and touches, in one place, the United States boundary on the south. It reaches west to the British Columbia boundary and east to the Bow River and Redcliff. It has six lines of railway with nearly sixty stations and towns besides hundreds of small districts and communities away from the railway.

It will at once be seen that it is impossible for me to visit every district and give public lectures in every community. I have spoken in nearly every community in Little Bow provincial constituency in the provincial election campaign when we elected Rev. Peter Dawson, M.L.A. I am therefore asking Little Bow to excuse me from any extended speaking during this Federal election, and ask their whole-hearted support of my candidature. I shall do my best to arrange for other speakers, if this possible.

While it is far from my desire to neglect any nook or corner of the constituency, I am sure the thinly populated districts quite understand the necessity of my reaching the larger points. To you I pledge my deepest interests in your problems and shall certainly visit your community at some other time, I appeal to you for your support.

We have need to emphasize the importance of Social Credit as a Federal issue. The Alberta Social Credit League are behind their candidates who are seeking to run. It is obviously our intention to stand behind the newly elected Alberta Social Credit Government at Ottawa. ALL VOTERS SHOULD THINK VERY CAREFULLY ALONG THIS LINE. There is a danger of thinking that because we have elected a provincial Social Credit government our duty is finished. We must recognize the "fight has just begun." The fight necessitates a solid clean cut block of 100% Alberta Social Credit members in the House of Commons at Ottawa. While it is too early to expect an entirely

Dominion Social Credit government to be elected, yet it is quite within our power in Western Canada to capture enough seats to hold what is known as "a balance of power."

In a press report recently Premier Aberhart said, "We want Social Credit candidates in the Federal field—the next Dominion Government may try to fool us."

It is therefore necessary for us to obtain as much power as possible at Ottawa. It is also necessary that all Social Creditors vote for 100% Alberta Social Credit candidates.

There are perhaps other candidates who will propose certain well deserved monetary reforms, even to the extent of the general applications of social credit, but this does not mean for one moment that such candidates are pledged to stand solidly behind the newly elected Alberta Social Credit Government.

In a recent broadcast from one of the largest churches in the city of Calgary the minister warned the voting public concerning the coming Federal election lest "we lose the ground we have already gained."

So far we have "fought a good fight." Let us not waver now when further advances for security must be made.

In a book I recently picked up in an office, I read the following dedication:

"To those who have sought without finding, who have asked and have not received and who stand with patient hearts at the gates of life and knock." I use the same dedication of myself to you, the people of Macleod Federal Constituency in particular.

I humbly solicit your vote,

ERNEST G. HANSELL.

Change And Rest

During the past two or three weeks radio fans, no doubt, have become rather tired of listening to the pleas and plaints of the politicians who have been making the welkin ring with appeals for support for the candidates of their choice, with fulsome praise for the policies of their own party and thunderous denunciations of the rival factions, fallacies and falsehoods of their opponents.

It was not very long ago that the opportunity afforded the farmer in the country and the citizen of the small town or village to absorb political knowledge and information—and sometimes misinformation—was restricted to one or two meetings during the campaign in the little school house on the other side of the pasture field or in the hall over the hardware store. It often meant that the farmer or citizen had an opportunity of hearing only one side of the political story. A heavy fall of snow, a deluge of rain, the necessity of remaining home to act as nurse to a sick cow or to entertain unexpected visitors—all these and many other things—intervened to make it impossible to attend a second meeting and hear what the opposition had to say.

All that has been changed now. The politician has discovered the radio and the ability it gives him to reach the homes of the land and pour forth his message, wily, nifty, into the ears of willing and unwilling listeners alike. And he took advantage of this facility to the nth degree during the Federal election campaign. Never in the history of Western Canada has the radio been brought into requisition so extensively to preach the gospel of tariff, internal reform, social credit, currency changes and what not as the solution to the ills to which the country has been, is and will be, a prey. If the country and small town voter in the past has had to make up his mind how to cast his ballot on a meagre diet of data and information and, as was said just now, sometimes misinformation, to-day this condition is entirely reversed, thanks to the radio. By this time the average voter, who has not deliberately "tuned out" too often, certainly cannot claim that he has not had opportunity of studying the issues which have been presented "over the air" in great diversity and with much frequency.

It is quite possible, on the other hand, that he may have come round for complaint that the diet has been too heavy, decidedly mixed, in fact, that he has been surfeited with so much information, partial information and misinformation that the issue, instead of being clarified became more and more confusing with succeeding broadcasts.

While the radio can be thanked for having done much to make available to the electors a great deal of knowledge, on the other hand as a disseminator of political platforms and policies and party propaganda it has some disadvantages.

One of the disadvantages is the tendency on the part of a considerable percentage of political radio lecturers to gabble their speeches at a speed comparable to the recent automobile record established by Sir Malcolm Campbell. To the listener at the receiving end it appears as though the speaker had back of his mind something like the following:

"I am paying, or the party is paying (as the case may be) a dollar a minute for this. I am only allotted ten minutes and for the love of me (short for microphone) I've got to jam as much across the air in that time as my breathing apparatus will permit and get the greatest possible value for the money."

As a result the gentleman on the receiving end is lucky if he is able to catch more than one sentence out of every three and to absorb more than one of every six.

The political marathoner appears to forget, too often, that what counts is not what he is able to plant in a receptive mind at the other end and not the number of words that he can shout into the mike—poor Mike—in a given number of minutes.

The political expounder also seemingly too often forgets that he starts on his race with a serious handicap compared with the platform orator at a public gathering. The latter is able to point his remarks or to emphasize his periods with a shrug of the shoulder, a lift of the hands or a flash of the eye and these devices, used with discretion, help the speaker to freshen his views on the listener.

To the radio speaker all these and other devices of gesture, and personality of appearance and manner are denied and he must rely solely on infection of voice, direct articulation and pause, for effect, and if he does not make full use of these his message may be nearly a total loss.

After a few weeks of repetition of political diatribe the average radio fan may be pardoned if he becomes a little tired of the twaddle of radio diatribe and finds seeking into his subconscious the pleasing strains of a first-class orchestra, the well modulated tones of the players in a radio drama or even the thump of the drums and skirl of the bagpipes.

A change is as good as a rat.

Arctic Cruise

Discover Evidence Of Early Migrations Of Eskimo Tribes

Long sought for information about the early migrations of Eskimo tribes may be disclosed by an expedition, planned by Douglas Leechman of the National Museum of Canada during the 14th annual Arctic cruise of the steamship Nascopie, which returned recently from the north. Mr. Leechman said he had excavated a ruined Eskimo village on Button Island, north of Port Burwell. His work brought to light ruined huts, weapons, tools and utensils that may be linked with discoveries made at other locations of the great northland.

Palestine Is Progressing

But Men Newcomers Outnumber Women Two To One

Zionism in one way leads the world, for in Palestine there is no unemployment. There is no idleness in the great program of building and of wasteland reclamation now in progress. Money from the outside comes in to Palestine in a steady stream and is available. But it has run into an unexpected difficulty. Among the newcomers the men outnumber the women two to one. It is the same experience so many lands have had. There is an alarming shortage of wives for the young men. That happened in the early days of Virginia when it was necessary to send ships loaded of marriageable girls to bring society to its proper proportion. History may repeat itself—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Good Gernsey Record
The four-year-old Gernsey cow, Lark of Chicom, owned by Dr. W. E. Wagnell, Mich., B.C., has just completed an outstanding production record of 11,435 lbs. of milk and 624 lbs. of butter fat on twice-a-day milking, in 369 days.

Commission Of Agriculture

International Organization Holds General Assembly In Belgium

The International Commission of Agriculture which embraces the International Union of Agricultural Associations representing agriculture in all parts of the world held its general assembly at Brussels and Genoa, Belgium, recently. The League of Nations, the International Labour Office, the International Institute of Agriculture, and the International Co-operative Alliance were represented, together with 110 delegates from various agricultural organizations in different parts of the world. The three principal questions before the Commission were the organization of agricultural production under planned economy, the edible fats problem, and the limitation of pig breeding and fattening, with reference to the special pig breeding attempts being made in Denmark and Holland.

The assembly devoted special attention to the present world conditions of agriculture, arriving at the conclusion that in spite of the fact that useful measures had been taken in several countries since 1922, the condition of agriculture had not improved, in most countries. Therefore, the Commission adopted a declaration insisting upon the different requests of its Lausanne declaration and setting up new proposals. To effect, this means that the world problems to be solved in order to overcome the agricultural crisis are those of wheat and edible fats. On one hand, the Commission is convinced that the London Wheat Agreement (1933) ought to be prolonged and improved, while on the other hand, the Commission is convinced that the old civilized countries ought to take measures, or improve the existing measures, to prevent the consumption of tropical fats and while oil where they handicap the normal consumption of butter and lard. The Commission also stressed the need of improving the prices of agricultural products and of reducing the cost of production as well as decreasing consumption. The next assembly of the Commission will take place in Oslo, Norway, in 1936.

Wheat Shortage

United States Will Have To Buy Considerable Quantity From Canada

The world wheat surplus this year will be the smallest since 1922, according to the United States department of agriculture estimated recently. The wheat supply will be about 330,000,000 bushels less than in 1934-35, due to short crops in Argentina, Australia and the United States.

Department of agriculture agreed considerable amounts of high grade wheat to mix with the United States supply would have to be imported from abroad to maintain the world supply. With almost two-thirds of the world carryover in the Dominion, its wheat hold-ings will "dominate world markets."

The world wheat production was estimated at about 3,430,000,000 bushels and the world carryover, outside of Russia, at 800,000,000 bushels, or a total of about 4,230,000,000 bushels. Production last year was 4,450,000,000 bushels, or a total of 1,100,000,000 bushels, or a total of about 4,550,000,000 bushels.

The short crops this year will reduce world carryover by the end of this season to between 400,000,000 and 500,000,000 bushels, or not much more than normal world carryover prior to 1928.

Epidemic Of Measles

Disease Spreads Among Indians From Yukon To Fort Chipewyan

Starting in the Yukon last spring, a severe epidemic of measles has spread among the Indian tribes scattered throughout the north and now has reached as far south as Fort Chipewyan, causing hardship and even deaths among the Indian tribes scattered throughout the north, according to R. H. G. Bonnyycastle, manager of the western Arctic division of Hudson's Bay Company, who arrived after a summer in the far north.

A New Experiment

Dr. R. S. Bruckhosenko, who has been experimenting in the revivification of animals, announced that a new scientific institute is being organized at Moscow for experimental work looking toward the revivification of human beings after "unconscious death." He explained "unconscious death" is death such as from accidents where the vital organs remain intact.

The five Canadian manufacturing companies specializing in lawn mowers produced 24,466 machines in 1934.

Striving To Reach Goal

Scientists Hope To Bombard Stratosphere With Speddy Rockets

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who mixes science with aviation, and Harry F. Guggenheim, who mixes aviation with science, gave the outside world a hint of the importance of etheral experiments which may send rockets straining into the stratosphere at super-sound speeds. Tests at the desert laboratory of Dr. Robert H. Goddard brought Guggenheim's announcement that the Guggenheim Family Foundation would pour more funds into the enterprise.

The "important" problem of automatic stabilization of rockets in vertical flight already has been solved, it was reported authoritatively and projectiles have been fired in preliminary work at speeds approximately 700 miles an hour.

Dr. Goddard explained the success of numerous tests in which vertical flight of the rocket had been maintained by a gyroscope. Repeated aid of the Foundation assured Dr. Goddard that now he may set out upon his prime objective; to send the rockets, propelled by liquid oxygen and gasoline into the outer space with recording instruments for atmospheric data of significant value to aviation and meteorology.

From a sixty-foot tower Dr. Goddard would shoot his twelve-foot rockets to altitudes greatly exceeding those which balloons are able to reach.

With his rockets he hopes to pierce the stratosphere in regions more than 20 miles high, so imperative to science, where electrical phenomena including ionization and the reflection of radio waves occur.

Astronomical photography without the interference of the earth's atmosphere would be another prized objective.

Sikorsky Flying Boat

British Firm Secure Manufacturing Rights For Aircraft

British Aircraft Ltd. has acquired manufacturing license rights to the Sikorsky flying boat type, officials of United Aircraft Corporation report.

Beyond affirming that the deal had been made with the Manchester, England, firm, United officials declined to give information about the negotiation between British Aircraft and the Sikorsky Aviation Corporation, Bridgeport, Conn., which is a United member.

United officials did not comment upon the fact that the flying boat craft are desired for use in Australia, New Zealand mail, express and passenger service. Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, trans-oceanic flyer, was in Bridgeport recently during the tests of the latest clipper ship. His presence there lent strength to the report of the Australian-New Zealand venture.

Women Of Ethiopia Give According To Their Means

Patriotic women of Ethiopia, rich and poor alike, are prepared to contribute to the defenses of their country by supplying provisions to the troops.

The women's patriotic society has adopted a resolution declaring, "with the enemy coming to destroy us and take our wealth, let us prepare for the soldiers eager to defend our freedom what they need; for each soldier three kunnas (about half a bushel) of powdered bread, three of barley flour, one of cubed bread fried in oil and one kubuya (one half a bushel) of powdered peas, one of bean flour, one of butter and one of coffee beans. Each must give according to the limit of her means."

A Real Air Hero

Navigator Of Jubilee Mail "Plane Awarded Air Cross"

In recognition of his gallantry while flying with Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith recently P. G. Taylor has been awarded the Air Cross. Taylor was navigator of the plane which Sir Charles was piloting between Australia and New Zealand with a load of Jubilee mail when engine trouble developed over the Taranaki Sea. For a time it seemed as if the plane must crash, but Taylor volunteered to go out along the wing and transfer oil from an engine which had gone out of action to another engine which was about to give out. He did this after time he crawled along an oil-smear strut to the engine and transferred oil in a flask, enabling the engine to hold out and the plane to land at Sydney.

Takes Time For Tea

John Bull may complain that he is one of the most heavily taxed men in the world to-day, but certainly he is not the least hard-worked.

An expert construction foreman, who recently returned to England after spending a number of years in Canada, writes:

"This is a terrible country to work in. We stop work at 10 a.m. and again at 3 p.m. and get a cup of tea. They certainly don't know what hard work is."

British Naval Program

Calling For Bids For Twenty-One Fighting Ships

Great Britain began calling for bids on 21 ships embraced by her 1935 naval building program.

Ten tonnage points standard (550,000 tons) will be required for the 1935 construction program, it was estimated. This program falls within the limits of the Washington naval treaty and is designed to replace over-aged ships. The new ships will include three cruisers, nine destroyers, three submarines, one submarine depot ship, four sloops, one survey ship, and several smaller vessels.

Work on this program was expected to be spread over about three years. Some of the fighting vessels will be built by the royal dockyards and the construction probably will be in full swing by next spring.

Japanese Railway Has New Idea For Helping Passengers

A new idea in railway comfort adopted in Japan would add greatly to our travel if it were adopted in this country. In every station blackboards are provided on which an inscription states: "Passengers desiring to communicate with friends expect the latter are invited to write messages." Here are some of the messages: "I waited half an hour, then took the 10:50 to Kyoto." "Can't go to-day, please don't be angry." "Have gone to restaurant, second floor." Evidently, trouble is suggested by this note: "My husband returned. Come next week."

Easy To Be Safe

Explosive Dials Cigarettes Will Not Eat Man Who Smokes

Safety measures are being taken by an explorer against being eaten by cannibals. "Cannibals won't eat people who smoke—they think it gives them their flavor," declared Dr. Edgar de la Rue, French geologist, on landing in New York from France on his way to the Cannibal Islands of the New Hebrides. Dr. de la Rue said that he found it a wise precaution to take plenty of tobacco with him on his visits to the islands. He goes there for the purpose of making a survey for the Natural History Museum of France.

Jack's coat. Without Tom's help, Nancy told herself, she could not endure much longer. That boy was a again! How many times had she seen him, when on the brink of doing, pull himself together valiantly to help younger ones. Why, he was downy now, poor darling! His task accomplished, he had slumped onto the floor, his head buried in his arms. Oh, he mustn't go under! Not leave little Tom O'god! Nancy dragged herself up, shaking the boy with all her failing strength.

"Wake up, Tommy! I need you! We must help these children. Don't go to sleep, Tom. . . . Keep fighting. . . ."

An hour later when the bus door snapped open and Matthew Adam, his uncle, and two grim-faced fathers stepped fearfully inside, Nancy's fur coat was covering a mound of children, while the girl herself, almost too spent to realize that help had come, sat on the floor amid a drift of snow with only a child's thin sweater covering her thin skin under-neath, nodding, as she rubbed mechanically at a small boy's frozen feet.

CHAPTER XIX.

Such events are "news" to the Arrowwood community. On the morning after that momentous blizzard James Nelson arose early, for Margaret was convalescing from an attack of flu, and the woman who had been coming in to help was also ill. Hence it devolved on Dad to get the family home started before being thus unaccustomed duty he stepped to take in his morning paper.

Spring had come early to Ridge-wood. The air, James noticed, was almost balmy. He had a melodious whistle, and Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" was on his lips, suddenly his doctor's warning before him.

"Hello, there!" greeted Phil on his way downstairs; and smiling, James laid him the paper without looking at it.

"Take that up to your mother, Phil. She may like to glance at the news before I go. But come right back, sonny. I need a coffee's assistant! And ask how much coffee I ought to use."

It's good to hear Dad's whistle, isn't it? It's good to hear the whole family laughing when that cheerful sound was silenced. "I feel like a slacker lying here while he turns cook, but the doctor says I'm not to stir for another week. Thank goodness Aunt Louise will be out to-night! Don't let me miss the paper, please, and tell your father a heaping tablespoon."

"Look here!" The small boy's eyes were bright with interest. "There's the news! A blizzard in Colorado! I wonder if it was near Cousin Columbine."

Margaret reached for the paper, continuing almost automatically. "A heaping tablespoonful to every cup of Phil." Then as he ran to join his father, she saw the headlines.

"TERRIFIC BLIZZARD SWEEPS COLORADO PLAINS," "FIVE FULLY ARMED MEN KILLED," "DRIVERS KILLED BY TWO YOUNG PEOPLE," "SEARCH OF HELP, BECAME FRUSTRATED AND DIED IN THE STORM."

"Denver, Colo., March 27th. (AP) A story of heroism and self-sacrifice was enacted yesterday afternoon in a school bus stalled on the Colorado prairie, when Nancy Nelson, nineteen, popular sub-bab, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Nelson of Boston and cousin Miss Columbine Nelson, pioneer resident of Pine Ridge, Colorado, stripped to her underwear in order to put her clothes on children who were freezing to death before her eyes; while her father, who was driving the bus, succumbed in hope of bringing help, succeeded in reaching a distant ranch where he died after giving news of the whereabouts of the missing bus."

"The driver, a heroic fellow, was a two young people, sixteen children were undoubtedly have perished. Frantic parents—"

Margaret read no further because her hands were shaking the paper could not see the type; but she managed to call, a call that somehow started her husband; and at that moment the front door bell rang.

John set the coffee pot on the stove, and said: "You answer that bell, son. I'll see what Mother wants."

Margaret was lying back against the pillow, her face colorless. One hand still clutched the paper, and a limp gesture told her husband he was to read it. He sat on the bed, and, strangely, his daughter's name started up at him as he took the sheet, even before he saw the headlines.

"Nancy Nelson. . . . stripped to her underwear. . . . brother Jack. . . . collapsed. . . ."

"It's a telegram!" cried Phil, bursting into the room just as excitement. "Maybe it's from Cousin Columbine asking me to visit her."

Open it quick, won't you? Why—what's the matter? Is Mother sick again? Gee! There's the telephone. What'd it have to ring for now?"

As he sped away, his father stared down at the yellow envelope. For a moment it seemed as if he could not face its contents. Then, bracing himself inwardly, he tore it open, eyes seeking the signature before he read.

DON'T BE UNDELY ALARMED BY REPORTS IN PAPERS STOP BOTH WILL HAVE HEARD OF CARL AT HOSPITAL STOP JACK MAKING GOOD ALL POSSIBLE BEING DONE STOP TELEGRAPH IF COMING STOP WILL WRITE AGAIN AT MOON AFTER TALKING WITH DOCTOR STOP AM PROUD OF OUR CHILDREN COLUMBINE NELSON.

Margaret, watching his tense face, cried out: "Is he ill?"

"Not that," James broke in quickly. "No that, dear!" and read the message, his voice trembling. Then the small boy was back, calling as he ran up the stairs: "It's Aunt Lou on the telephone. She wants you, Dad. Where's that telegram?"

When James returned five minutes later there was a bit more color in Margaret's face, and Phil, avidly perusing the story, lifted his head from the newspaper to exclaim: "Gee, Daddy! Jack wasn't wearing any socks! He got put 'em on a little later than that was freezing. And Nance had given her stockings to some one too, and her dressn's her fur coat and everything."

She had one of the little sweaters over her slip. She got unconscious soon as they found 'em. One of those Adam fellows got there first. They'd been to his underwear and got caught in the blizzard on the way home and collided with that bus. It says they were both un-derstandable heroes; and the driver was found a mile off the road under a snowdrift. Nance's legs are frozen to—"

He ceased abruptly at a warning glance from his father.

"That's enough now, Phil. Louise has seen the paper, Margaret, and she's rather worked up—for Louise. Another teacher will take her classes and she'll catch an early train out here. I'll stay home, Dad. Come right back. She asked if we were going to Colorado, but—"

"I feel as if I must, Jim," said Margaret weakly. "If Jack has pneumonia he—be's grown so fast that—"

"The last letter said he'd gained twenty pounds," the little boy reminded them, "and Nance said he'd never looked so husky."

"I know," Dad answered, thinking that should Jack not weather it his mother could scarcely reach him and they would miss the bus. "Margaret, and I'll bring some coffee. You'll feel stronger when you've had something to eat."

Odd Jobs in Hollywood

One Man Makes All The Cobwebs For Spooky Films

In the Hollywood crowd, one man who has worked 10 years—and he has yet to see a film star. He works at night. Every night he files and sharpens the teeth of 200 axes and the army of carpenters which come the next day. His is only one of the many odd jobs in Hollywood.

He is called "the cobweb spinner," for example. He makes cobwebs for those "spooky" films they turn out in Hollywood every now and then. He spins them out of a chemical mixture that is formed into gossamer strands by a strange electrical machine. When a glass is to be shot from an actor's hand or a rope to be snipped by a bullet they call in Tex Driscoll, who has been doing this sort of thing for more than 10 years, and who has never missed yet. Perhaps the strangest is that of Herman Fromme. He has to listen to music. Being the copyright expert, he can tell who wrote any four bars and where it comes from. That prevents the studio lifting music for which they might be asked to pay an exorbitant sum later.

Sapphire Is Favorite

Selected As Betrothal Stone By Brides of King's Sons

The brides of sons of the King and Queen have been at one of their choicest betrothal stones, says the Glasgow Herald. Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon set the example, which was followed a year ago by Princess Marina of Greece, and has been copied now by Lady Alice Scott. The Princess's Royal selected an emerald engagement ring, probably because so many sapphire stones were included in the Chancery jewels, which were a wedding present from her bridegroom.

Should Apply To Motorist

Refraining From Conversation With Driver Might Prevent Accidents

Don't talk to the driver! That is the advice a familiar order apply only to the motorman? He at least has rails to hold him in the line of duty. The motorist has only a steering wheel.

Who can hold the car strictly to the straight and narrow with some-thing jabbering into his ear? How can he concentrate with a shrill voice yelling at every curve, "Look!"

The front seat driver is accused of many crimes and misdemeanors, of some of which he is not guilty. The back seat one is participes criminis. But the man at the wheel gets the devastating headlines and the plaintiff attorney's scathing remarks to the jury.

"Don't talk to the driver!" ought to be hung over every motorist's head. And to it should be added: "Don't let the driver talk to you!"

The place for a driver's tongue is in his cheek. The place for his hand is on the wheel, and not pointing out the pictures. And the place for his mind and eyes is on the ribbon of concrete unrolling ahead—Los Angeles Times.

Homage To Canada's Dead

Earl Of Beasburgh Places Wreath In Peace Tower

Homage to Canada's dead in the Great War was paid by the Earl of Beasburgh as one of his last official acts before he left this country. Accompanied by his staff, His Excellency proceeded to the memorial chamber in the Peace Tower at Ottawa, and there deposited a wreath of maple leaves and poppies on the Altar of Remembrance.

The ceremony the Governor-General was presented with a document which bore the Legion's appreciation of the interest manifested by His Excellency in ex-service men's problems throughout his regime in Canada.

Little Helps For This Week

Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off. I Kings, 26:2.

Was I not girded for the battle—Bore I not helm of pride and glittering sword? Behold the fragments of my broken shield. And send to me Thy heavenly armor, Lord.

Oh, be at least able to say in that day—Lord I am no hero. I have been clumsy, cowardly, sometimes all but malicious. Pardon me, I have deserved, I deny it not. But a traitor and deserter I have never been. I have tried to fight on Thy side in Thy battle against evil. I have tried to do the duty that lay nearest me, and have whatever Thou didst commit to my charge a little better than when I found it. I have not been good, but I have at least tried to be good. Take the will for the deed dear Lord. Strike not my unworthy name off the roll-roll of the noble and victorious army which is the blessed company of all faithful people, and let me too be found written in the Book of Life, even though I stand the lowest and last on the list.

A Robot Lighthouse

Automatic Lamp And Fog Siren Protect Perilous Spot

A remarkable robot lighthouse which has almost human reactions was recently put into service on the dangerous Nivivik Rock, near Ushant Island. It is electrically operated and the lighthouse has been named "Monsieur Nivivik," so impressed are they by its power. The giant lamp of the lighthouse is of 2,000,000 candle-power, the power being laid on from the mainland. It automatically goes into action when darkness falls. Even if the power cable is broken, an acetylene lamp will automatically take over. A huge siren switches itself on in foggy weather. The Nivivik Rock is situated in such a perilous spot that an ordinary lighthouse with a keeper is impracticable. Boats can only reach it once or twice a year.

World Wheat Situation Improves

World's businessmen wheat surplus has practically disappeared. World's available supplies will come closer to world's requirements than in any year since 1928. Rust in Canada and the U.S.A., drought in Argentina and Australia have brought about this situation, and so a rise in price. Fear of war also is tending to increase price. Other price-making factors are the amount Russia and European countries will offer for sale. The purchasing power of the wheat importing countries as well will have an influence. In any case the situation from the viewpoint of the producer has greatly improved.

tion, Province of Saskatchewan; executive member Saskatchewan Curling Association. As provisional director of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, Mr. Mathewson made an extensive study of wheat marketing in Canada, United States and European countries in the years 1923-24. In 1924 he submitted to the first permanent board of directors of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, his policy and ideas respecting the marketing of wheat for the benefit of the grower. This plan regrettably was not accepted, but embodied in its recommendations many of the fundamental principles of wheat marketing, so beneficial to the interests of the grower and which are now the salient features of the Canadian Wheat Board legislation, recently enacted by the Bennett government.

To these responsible offices which he has filled, may be added his appointment as Justice of the Peace of Saskatchewan in 1914 under a Liberal government, a post which he held continuously since that time until 1934.

The wide and varied experience and knowledge acquired in the discharge of these duties and fulfillment of office are necessary qualifications for the position which he now seeks as member supporting the policies of the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.
